HE'S ALMOST AS SMALL AS BUSH

Poor Catching Hindered Work of Cashion in Game Yesterday.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 26.—One of the most encouraging features of the work of the Nationals since they started their swing around the circuit has been the work of Ray Morgan at third base.

In his work in practice on the home grounds he looked rather fast to the fans, but it was not until he was assigned his present position at third that the Danville recruit hit his real stride. He has improved with each succeeding day and yesterday was the best since he came into the league, justifying in the fullest measure all the good things Scout Kahoe told the owners when he first located the player.

Next to "Donie" Bush, Morgan is probably the smallest man on the circuit. As in stature, Morgan reminds one of the Detroit shortstop in his fielding. He has a way of coming in at top speed at balls hit straight at him, scooping them up on the run thereby saving so much time that he can lob the sphere across the diamond where a man who waits is hurried in his throw. But when he has to get a fast runner and momentarily fumbles, Morgan is capable of whistling the ball at Schaefer in a way that makes his work look especially brilliant.

Yesterday was Morgan's best day with the bat, although in the other games he has come to bat with proper time with neat sacrifice hits that have been a big help to the men on the bases.

Cashion Handicapped.

Why a pitcher so young in major league experience as is Cashion should be deprived of the expert advice and guidance of so capable a catcher as Charley Street has never been explained.

It is conceded that Cashion's worst weakness is his lack of control, as he has curves and speed galore, and it is just the sort of catcher at Street who is needed to get the best work out of the Carolinian.

Henry, of course, is promising, but he lacks the experience and general aptitude of Street. Had Almsmith or Henry been used to receive the well-placed shots and speed of Johnson, leaving Street to support Cashion, or had Street been used twice yesterday, might have been two for Washington instead of one each.

For some unknown reason Clarence Walker is a far more finished fielder abroad than on the home grounds. At National Park Walker has the greatest trouble in getting back on balls hit behind him, and in coming in he has never arrived at the ball until it is almost to the ground.

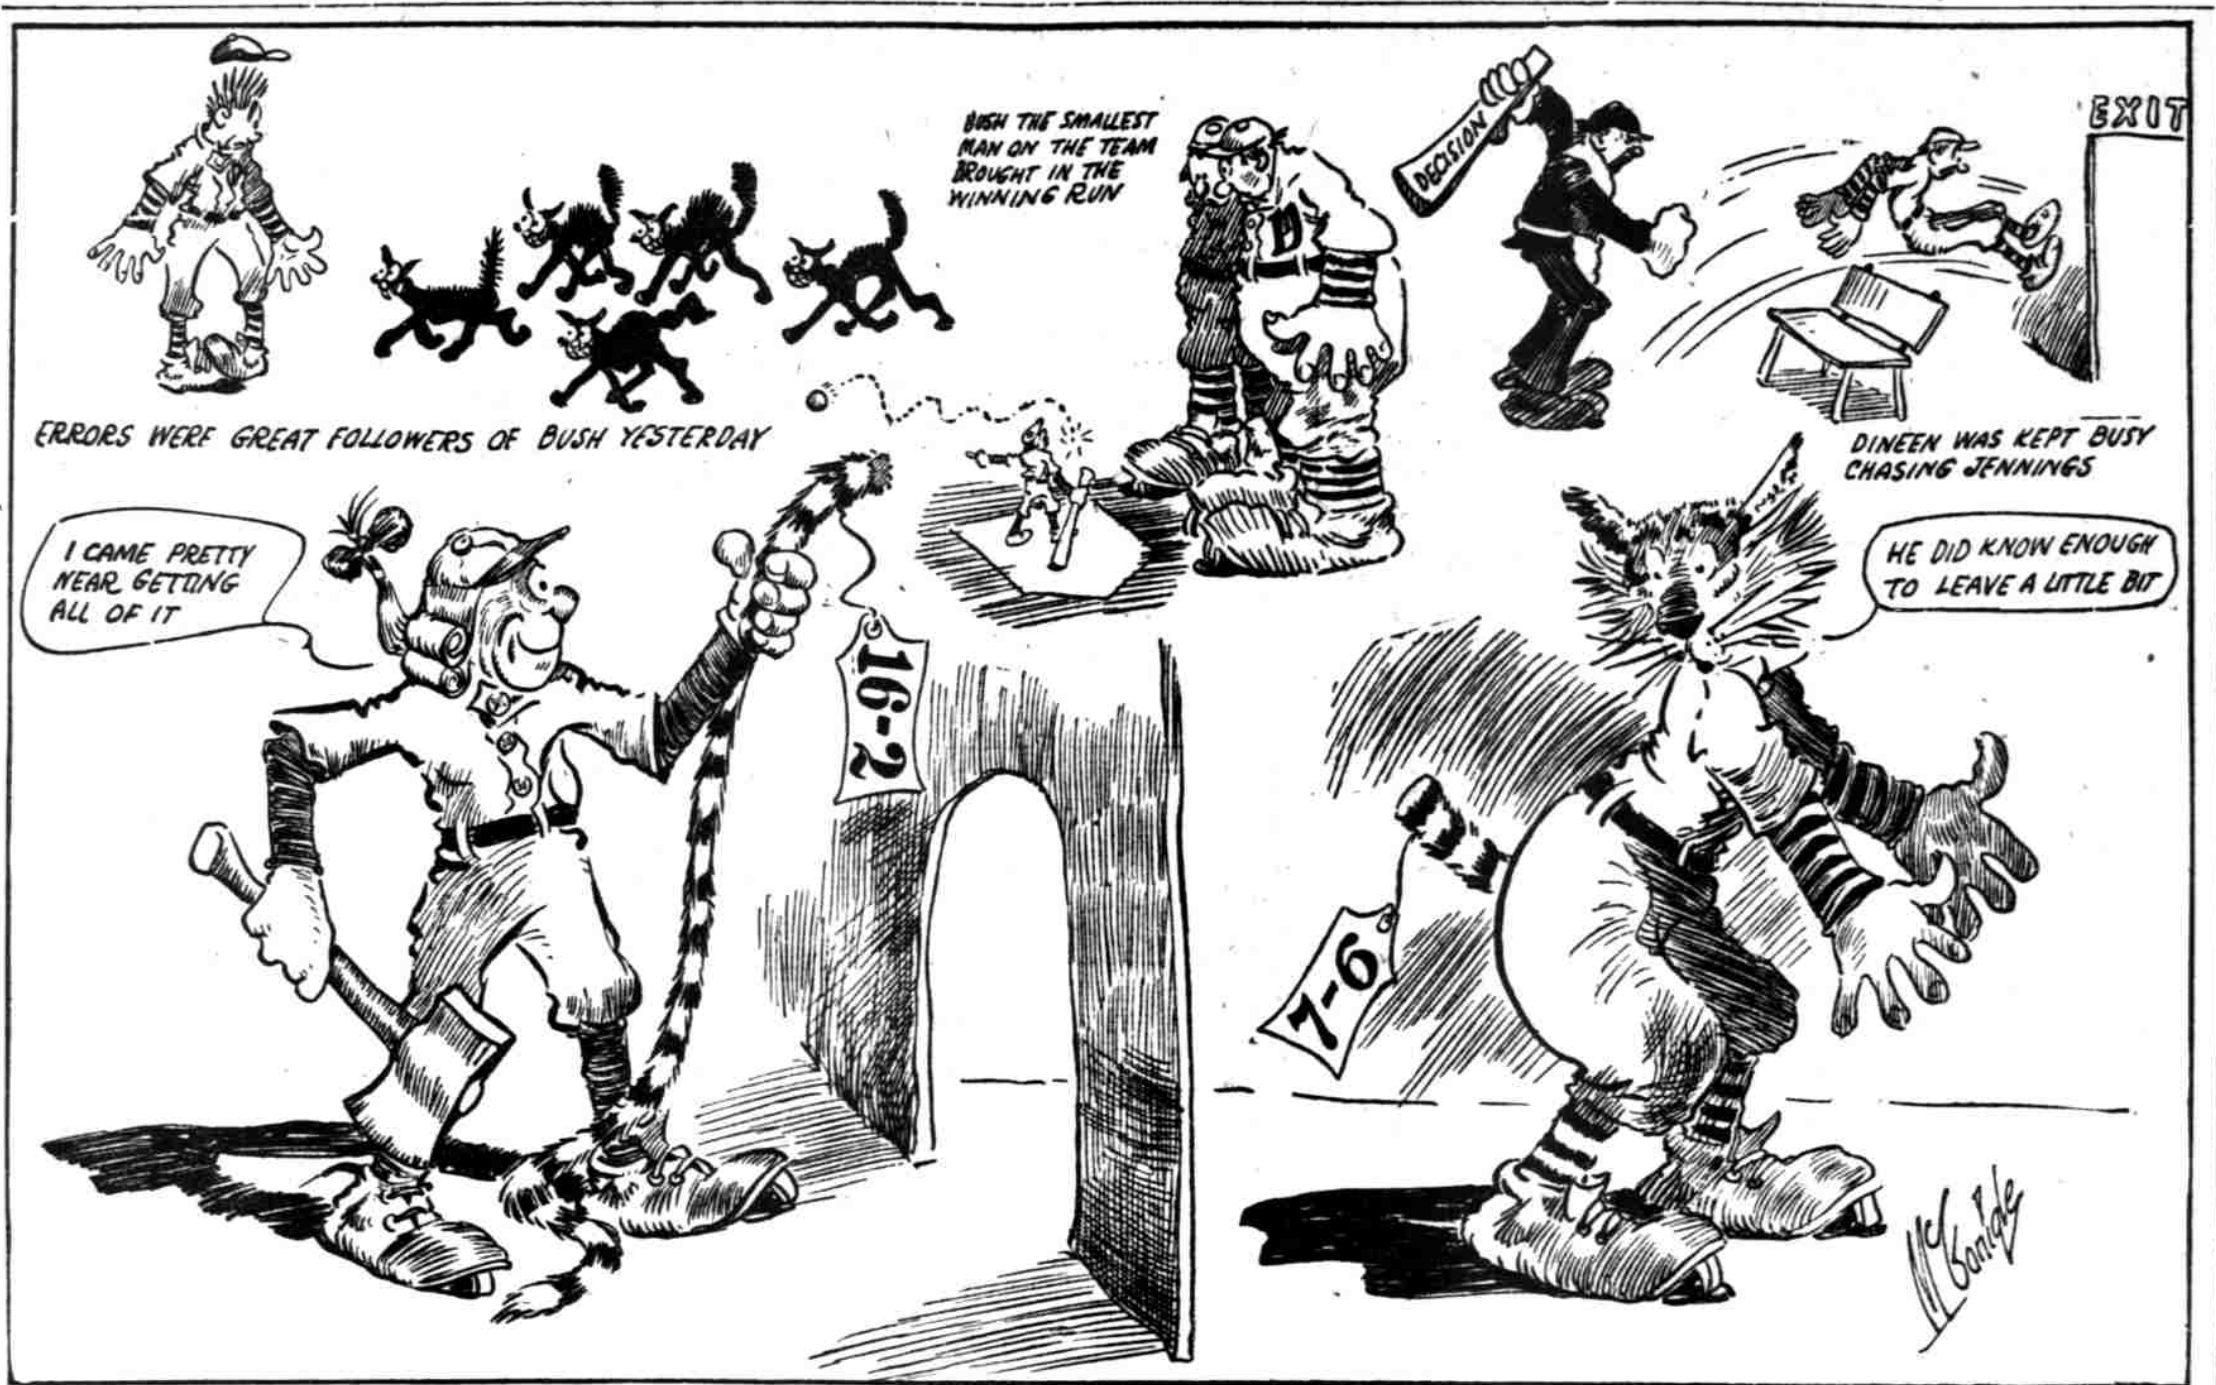

Since getting away from home, however, Walker has been a veteran in fielding efficiently, and receiving complimentary notices at every stop.

While comparatively quiet at National Park, Schaefer's antics on the field wide away, keeps the crowds in good humor at every stop. He is playing such a finished game himself that they have few chances to kid him, and when ever he gets a hit he turns to the stands and has some real fun.

Both teams were quiet at the minute and enjoyed the well-aimed humor handed out by the Honey Pev. Some of the audience wanted Schaefer to get behind the footlights and do a little turn, but the German modestly bowed his refusal.

Cleveland is the next stop for the Nationals.

DOUBLE BATTLE SHOCKS BALLDOM

Thrills, Frills, Bingles, Bungles, Joy, Horrors, and Baseball to Burn in Detroit Smash-up Which the Nationals Get the Best of in Halving Honors.

By "SENATOR."

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 26.—Replete with thrills, frills, bingles, and bungles, moments of joy and others of sorrow, that St. Louis Tigers and Nationals game yesterday, contained more baseball than has been played within the memory of the oldest inhabitants. The Nationals topped the first and were finally beaten in the second, only after they had forced the battle beyond the standard number of innings.

Whether it was the presence of Granville Hunt, who was here bidding for the next Moose convention, posing as Washington's sole rooster, or the two days' rest, is problematical, but whatever the cause, the fact remains that during the greater part of the nineteenth innings the Nationals played like a six-alarm conflagration, giving their best exhibition of the present tour, which is no small compliment after those games in St. Louis and Chicago. Whenever you are in a Washington theater and the band plays Dixie, there is the usual crop of enthusiasts whose experience with the Southland is limited to the an-tomac about twenty miles, but it took no such patriotic music to arouse these folks.

Hits by Gessler, Cunningham, and Street, together with a walk to McBride, and then an error, netted Washington one in the second, and hits by Milan and McBride, coupled with a base on balls, an error, and a wild pitch gave them two more in the third. The big blow-off came in the fifth when Johnson singled, Milan singled, Schaefer doubled, Walker was safe on a fielder's choice which went wrong, Gessler hit to center, McBride walked and Morgan peeled off a safety. When all was counted up it was seen that Washington had piled up four registrations and now had seven to its credit.

In the eighth McBride was safe on chance to second, Morgan doubled, and Cunningham dropped one in front of Cobb. The next two were easy, but then came Milan and Schaefer hit infield blows which they beat. All this fusillade together with an error by Bush gave Washington four more.

The ninth was more or less of a farce and runs came so fast that there was a general yell for quits. In this round Detroit made three errors and the Nationals four hits, meaning that Washington's total figures reached the alarming figure of sixteen.

For Detroit, the hammering his terrific drive over the stand for a home run and in the eighth Johnson let down and allowed four singles, which meant one run.

Joke game in Detroit assists in establishing record for single day. Thirty-one runs were made on fifty hits and fifteen errors. "Dode" Criss is sold to Louisville by St. Louis Browns for $3,000 and several players. New York Giants defeat Pittsburgh Pirates and once more jump into the lead in the National League race.

Seven pitchers are used by White Sox to win from Highlanders, Scott, Benz, Baker, Young, and White, in the box, and Lange and Walsh as pinch hitters.

"Donie" Bush, Tiger shortstop, makes five errors in that first game, but at that had nine put-outs and two assists.

President Foeel, of the Phillies, ruled against by President Lynch, attacks head of league and Umpire Johnstone. Also quarrels with Manager Doolin.

Eckington Wins. Eckington won from the conductors and motormen of the East Car Barn, yesterday, by 6 to 2. Gregory's home run for the winners was the feature.

ORIOLE PARK DATE FOR ST. JOHN'S AND WASHINGTON TEAMS

Gridiron Battle Will Be Fought in Baltimore November 25.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 26.—Arrangements have been made by the athletic authorities of Washington and St. John's for the lease of Oriole Park for the annual football game between these colleges on November 25. The friends of both colleges have frequently expressed a desire to see closer athletic relations between these two natural rivals, and in order to give the alumni and their friends the most favorable opportunity of seeing the game it has been decided to play in Baltimore. The Washington schedule follows: October 7, Rock Hall at Chestertown; October 14, Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg; October 21, Delaware at Newark, Del.; October 28, Stevens' Institute at Chestertown; November 4, Mt. St. Joseph's at Chestertown; November 11, Maryland Agricultural at Chestertown; November 18, Gallaudet at Washington; November 25, St. John's at Baltimore.

PROHIBIT STECHER FROM COMPETING IN A. A. U. GAMES

Washington Cross-Country Distance Runner's Suspension Hurts Club.

John G. Stecher, of the Washington Cross Country Club, has been prohibited from participating in any games held under the sanction of the South Atlantic Association, Amateur Athletic Union, for the period of one year, dating from August 15, 1911.

Stecher went to Baltimore to run in the games given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and on his return, submitted an expense account for $450 to the A. A. U. The account was paid, but under protest that it was in excess of the amount prescribed by the rules of the Union.

Stecher's suspension will be a great loss to the Washington Cross Country Club, as he is one of the best long-distance runners in the District and the club has depended on him to score a large number of points for it in the coming meets of the season.

The action of the registration committee was taken after a week of deliberation, when the vote was said to have been unanimous for Stecher's suspension.

GLIDDEN TROPHY ON EXHIBITION HERE, IS MUCH SOUGHT PRIZE

Atlaslike Figure Attracts Crowds to Window Display.

ADDS IMPETUS TO INTEREST IN TOUR

Stronger Effort Will Be Made to Have Washington Put in Route.

By HARRY WARD.

The massive Glidden trophy is on exhibition in Washington, and interest in the movement to have this city represented in the 1911 renewal of the classic event has been increased. The trophy, a large silver figure, surmounted by a globe representing the World, occupies a place in the show window of the Zell Motor Car Company, and is being viewed by thousands of persons. "It would be a mighty fine thing to have the Glidden trophy won by a team of motorists representing this city," said a follower of automobile sports. "It will prove a splendid advertisement for the city, and, in winning it, the Washington team would spread the gospel of Washington from New York to Jacksonville, between which points the route of the tour will run."

The Glidden trophy is the most desired prize in the automobile world. It was donated eight years ago as the prize for the National reliability endurance tour promoted each year by the American Automobile Association, the donor being Charles J. Glidden, of Boston, who some years ago made a tour of the world in a motor car. The Glidden tour, with the splendid trophy, has done more to aid in the development of the automobile than any other event. The trophy is now in the possession of the Chalmers Motor Car Company, whose car last year won it after the most grueling reliability contest ever held in this country. The company is exhibiting it in various Eastern cities.

Ralph Mulford is the favorite for the National stock car chassis race at Elgin today, although Harry Grant, who won the Vanderbilt cup race twice in succession, is pushing him hard for the position of honor. A representative lot of cars have been entered, and, with veteran pilots Ralph DePalma, Johnny Aitken, Len Zengel, Hughie Hughes, Harry Grant, Ralph Mulford, and many lesser lights who might bring a surprise, the race should prove the best one ever held in the West.

The Marion Motor Sales Company has leased the building at 1323 Fourteenth street, and will take possession September 1. The building is now occupied by the Wilson Company, which will have temporary quarters with the Terminal Taxicab Company, pending the selection of a new salesroom.

R. C. Wilson, of the Wilson Company, will leave today for New York, and will make the return trip with a 1912 Cole touring car.

The United Motor Washington Company reports the sale of Maxwell cars to the Alexandria Lighting Company, Alexandria, Va.; George E. Shoemaker, Dr. H. T. Willis, Dr. E. W. Watkins, and H. W. Kearney.

E. H. Remde, of the Baker Motor Vehicle Company, is in Washington conferring with the Public Printer relative to the Baker trucks to be installed in the delivery service of the Government Printing Office.
